

EDITORIAL MESSAGE

Dear Colleagues,

On behalf of the Institute of Applied Mathematics Baku State University I am pleased to announce the launching of the “Proceedings of the Institute of Applied Mathematics”, as a new Journal.

The first inaugural issue of the Proceedings is coming out to the special date - the 20th anniversary of the establishment of our institute. In this period from 1992 to our days the Institute had a great growth and development. Now in the 6 departments of the Institute our collaborators carry out their research in different fields of pure and applied mathematics, as well as, differential equations, control theory, computer sciences, optimization, inverse problems, numerical methods, mechanics, with applications to the different practical problems.

Considering the volume of the obtained results we decided to establish this Journal that we hope will be also a natural home for the papers of the authors from over the world, whom we invite to consider the Proceedings as outlet tool for their results to the world scientific community.
